Dear Dr. Nicole Rodriguez,

On behalf of the Accreditation Board of the Association for Behavior Analysis International (ABAI), I am pleased to inform you that the Board has renewed full accreditation of the Ph.D. program in Applied Behavior Analysis at the University of Nebraska Medical Center's Munroe-Meyer Institute. The Ph.D. program's accreditation now extends through December 31, 2024.

During this period, your program is required to share its accreditation status and display the ABAI Accreditation Board doctoral-level accreditation seal in compliance with the Board's policy on public disclosure of accreditation status. To maintain accreditation, your program must remain in compliance with the Board's policies and procedures, including the submission of an annual report and annual accreditation fees, during the first quarter each year the program is accredited. If your program chooses to re-apply for accreditation before the current term expires, a new self-study will need to be submitted to the Board before April 1, 2024. More information about the policies and procedures relevant to maintaining accreditation can be found on the Board's website: <https://accreditation.abainternational.org>

Accreditation is specifically designed to convey information about a training program's comprehensiveness, rigor, and quality. Its purpose is to promote quality control within the discipline's training programs. The Board would like to extend its appreciation to your program for helping to preserve the integrity of the field's training programs. The Board agrees with the numerous commendations in the site visit report. The Board also notes that the unique nature of your program allows it to succeed with a relatively small faculty. Still, the Board believes that the program would be strengthened by increasing the faculty and recommends that you do so.

If you have any questions about accreditation, please do not hesitate to contact me. Additionally, if your program assigns a new Program Administrator during the current term, please notify the Board immediately so we may update our records.

Sincerely,
